

Dear colleagues,

The Faculty of Economy of Alecu Russo State University of Balti organizes on the 5-6th November 2010 the International Scientific-Practical Conference „ The Role of Informational Technologies in the Professional Training of Specialists in Economy” in collaboration with other university and scientific centres from the Republic and abroad.

The conference is organized in the framework of the scientific project „The Strategic Formation of Human Potential in Education with the Help of Informational Technologies”, which is carried out at the Faculty of Economy.

During the workshops of the conference we would like to initiate scientific debates and exchange of opinions on the proposed topic in order to identify problems and perspectives of training a competitive specialist and to point out the role of informational technologies in the efficient formation of future economists.

We are inviting you to participate at the workshops of the conference with reports or scientific communications and ask you to spread the invitation for participation at the conference to other interested people as well.
